Collaborative approach
 Co-design
 The collaborative and collegial approach.
 Open communication with multiple perspectives and view points assessed.
 Collaboration all had a voice
 It produced output!
 Sharing of research that mirrors the findings and direction of education within my organisation
 The collective conversation that was created.
 The use of the topic specific round table discussions gave us the opportunity to learn from each others expertise and to add our own experience of the issues under discussion
 Diverse table groups so different perspectives were covered.
 Inclusive multi faceted ability to contribute

Group discussion and gaining perspectives from everyone involved. Involving the right people in the process. Discussions with, and the opportunity to hear from First Response and clinical subject matter experts. These occasions always lead to better informed outcomes that directly benefit persons in crisis. Sometimes the agencies can be siloed in our responses/actions
Diverse group of professionals
The use of qualtrics to collect information.
Very good mix of people per table

Sometimes got off topic
Nil
Not enough time
I'd like to have heard from, perhaps the ADF Psyche present, or any other of the eminently qualified people, as to her input on how an ADF Vet in crisis is different or unique to anyone else in crisis and how to better deal with them
Could have benefited from more time, but then again getting these people into the same room at the same time was a huge achievement!
When facilitating discussion as a group have clearly defined roles.
We are out of time to facilitate enough content for the videos.
Not enough time to unpack the specifics of the video content
Probably didn't make full use of people's experience - but that may come later with further collaboration.
It would have been good to understand why first responders are the focus of this intervention...
Have there been problems in how first responders respond, if so what?
There was nothing negative about the day.
I would have liked more whole of room discussion
The time allocated for activities was not enough. An extra 20-30 minutes for each would have been appreciated.

Nope
No
No, I really valued having the range of people and organizations here
Have people present with lived experience if available
We need more time to work on the content to ensure we capture the knowledge across the agencies.
No, it was well done and the right people were in the room.
Perhaps a pre-survey for attendees to help spark/focus conversations.
To bring Emergency Departments and Acute MH services into the conversation as important stakeholders.
No, it was a well organized event.
Being it was tailored to Defence, perhaps a short talk (or video) from an ADF lived experience person?
1. Invite some veterans 2. Get people to move tables to get greater cross-population
A change of tables/groups may have resulted in more collaboration across the entire attendance cohort.
Some more time for distillation and focusing of ideas could have been useful
